Le dernier jour et je ne sais toujours pas – The Last Day and I Still Don't Know

Participants have little opportunities to ask senior conference speakers their questions, now you can. No doubt, that during the conference you have collected many ideas and got many useful tips. But, check for yourself, have all your questions been answered? Do you know how to translate it to your company situation? This interactive session is your chance to leave the conference with a tick in every box. Join the interactive session and hear how seasoned speakers experienced the conference and challenge them with your testing questions.

Derk-Jan de Grood will moderate this lively session and mix questions from the audience with those gathered in advance. He will collect some of the seasoned speakers of the conference in his session and encourage you in his enthusiastic way to participate. You can share your thoughts or help your fellow participants by recapturing those sessions that they missed. So, if you want an answer to that one lingering question, sort your thoughts and get a wrap-up on the conference. Don't leave yet; this is the session to attend.
